Project Name
Some minor explainations of the details of the project

Date of Project, etc
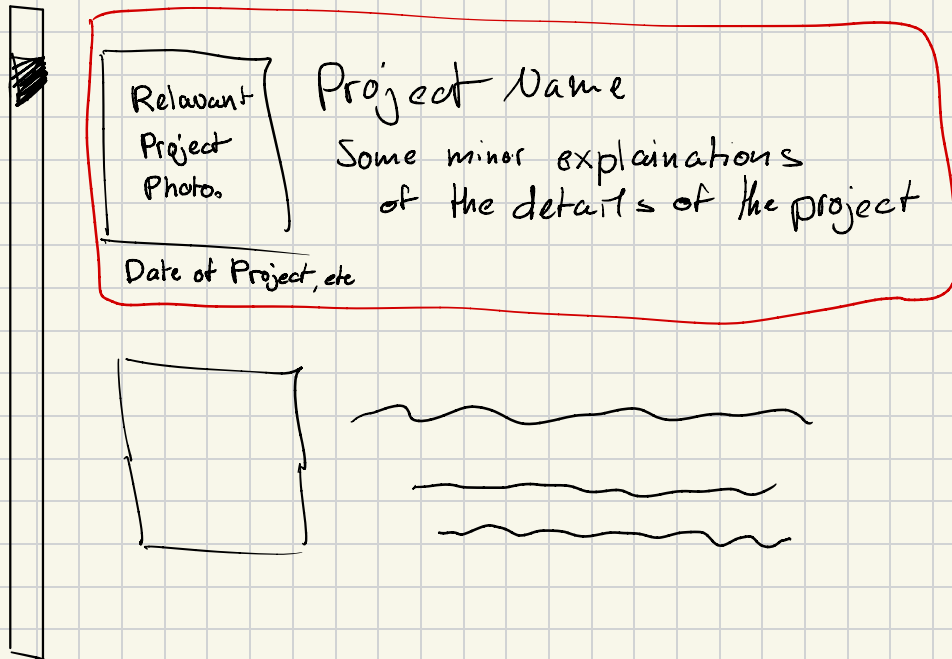

This whole element serves as a big link to another website with more details. Or has an expanded view.

2. I want this to update automatically when I add new files, so I can easily add new entries. Most importantly, I don't want to update this system often so it needs to work without manual input.

2) I want to have a timeline of sorts where the project at the top has the newest one, oldest near the bottom.

3) When you select a photo, it should open some kind of panel to give more info, maybe pulled from github, but also has a local Gallery for photos.
